POLITICAL FIGHTS TO OPEN EARLY

Many Candidates in the Field
For the Numerous Offices
That are to be Filled

PRIMARIES ON APRIL 9TH

Commissioner Orvis of Waukegan Will Probably Enter the Race for State's Attorney

Although the primaries do not occur until April 9, several months away as yet, there is every indication that politics in this district will be in full swing inside of a very short time. Some of the candidates have begun already to advertise quite extensively and this is sure to bring out the others much sooner than they have planned a strenuous campaign.

For the last two or three months the candidates have been making visits to various parts of the county, feeling out their strength and laying their wires.

Commissioner Elmer V. Orvis is the latest candidate for the office of State's Attorney. He has made no formal announcement but merely has announced to his friends that he will be in the race. Ralph Dandy has announced that he is a candidate for re-election and Justice William Weiss also will make the run.

The race for state representative will be a merry one with a large number of candidates. The democratic candidates who have announced their candidacy already are: Hayes of Crystal Lake, Joseph Freund of West McHenry, and Thomas Graham, of Long Lake.

The republicans in the race are: Attorney C. T. Heydecker of Waukegan, Attorney David Jackson of Lake Forest and James Vickers of Harvard. Representative Joseph Anderson of Lake Forest, elected on the prohibition ticket, announces that he is a candidate for re-election. In addition it is practically certain that Representative Edward Shurtleff, of Marengo, will make the run again although he has made no formal announcement to that effect.

For state senator there are but two men who are officially in the race as yet. They are Paul MacGuffin of Libertyville and Senator A. J. Olson, who is a candidate for re-election.

The names of three men are mentioned for the office of county coroner but up to the present time but one man has made an announcement that he is to make the run, Edward Conrad deputy coroner, announced some time ago that he would make the run this year.

Coroner J. T. Taylor, of Libertyville, has practically admitted that he would be a candidate for re-election but as yet he has made no formal announcement to that effect.

The other man mentioned is Dr. John Turner who announced a short time ago that several of his friends had urged him to make the run but said that he was not yet ready to make a statement.

For the position of Circuit Clerk and Recorder the names of but two men have been brought out and both of these men have made formal announcements that they are in the race. Lewis O. Brockway says that he will be a candidate for re-election. Opposed to him will be John Reardon, member of the Waukegan school board and at one time county court reporter.

That Explains

"I have a dog and a hen which are fast friends. I don't think so?"
"I don't think so—merely natural affinity."
"In what way?"
"I believe your hen and your dog are both settlers."

Whatever Thy Hand Findeth

"I have been a great deal happier," who said at last, "since I've given up thinking about what is easy and pleasant and being discontented because I could not have my own will. Our life is determined for us—and it makes the mind very free when we give up wishing and only think of bearing what is laid upon us, and doing what is given us to do."—George Elliot.

WM. E. KINES IS DEAD

Young Man's Gun Explodes and Charge
Enters Right Leg

William Edward Kines, son of Mrs. Frank Kines, of 929 North avenue, Waukegan, died at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Janville hospital, Janesville, Wis., of blood poison.

Tuesday, October 31, Mr. Kines was seriously injured in the woods north of Janesville, where a shot gun he was carrying exploded. A heavy load of shot and gun cotton was lodged in his right leg, just above the ankle. He was carried to Janesville on the back of his companion. When placed on the operation table it was found necessary to amputate the leg just below his right knee.

Sunday night, November 5, gangrene set in. The physician in charge, amputated the leg a second time just four inches below the hip. Mr. Kines never rallied after the second operation.

His wife and five year old daughter were summoned to his bedside Sunday night and they never left him until he gave up his fight for life.

Mr. Kines was unable to tell just how he met with the accident that cost him his life. He told the following story to his wife as he lay on his death-bed:

"I was walking at a slow rate carrying the shot-gun in my right hand. The barrel of the gun pointed toward my right foot. Whether I stumbled or whether the trigger of the gun caught in my clothing I do not know. I was stunned by the shot, and don't believe there is any one who can tell how I met with the injury. I do know that there was nobody responsible for the accident but myself."

The Kines family will be remembered by many of our readers, having lived for years at Fox Lake where they owned and conducted the East Side hotel.

ARMOUR FUND PENSION

Men Employed at Armour's Get Pension
After working Twenty Years

Armour & Company have announced the establishment of a pension fund for the benefit of its 16,000 employees throughout the United States. The fund became operative on November 1. J. Ogdon Armour of Lake Forest, head of the packing industry, has pledged a donation of $1,000,000 to the fund.

The fund is created for the benefit of salaried employees who shall have reached the age of from fifty-seven to sixty-five years and who have been twenty years or more in the service of the company.

Employees pay into the fund 3 per cent of their salaries annually. Upon retirement they receive 2 per cent of the salary paid them at the time of retirement for each year service—i. e., having served twenty-five years, receiving 50 per cent of their salary on retirement.

Women employees are eligible to the pension fund. A clause provides that upon marriage they are to receive back all monies paid in. All employees who leave the service receive back amounts contributed to the fund.

Pensioned employees may engage in other business or accept other employment as long as it is not of the same character as the business conducted by Armour & Co.

HENRY HARTNELL

AT MENDOTA

FOR TREATMENT

Henry Hartnell, former well known young man of the town of Salem, who was sent to the state hospital for the insane at Mendota for treatment some time has been taken to the asylum for the incurables at Racine and he is now declared to be a mental wreck and there is little or no hope of his ever recovering. The case of Hartnell was an unusual one and his name has been seen on the dockets of the Kenosha courts many times the past few years.

Hartnell first came into the limelight when he was arrested for setting fire to the Evanslumber yard in the western part of the county and later it was developed that he had a mania for starting fires. When he was arrested some time ago on charges of setting fire to some stacks of hay in the town of Salem his relatives insisted that he was insane and that he be sent to a state institution.

At the present time charges are pending against Hartnell in the courts of the county but it is not expected that he will ever be brought back for trial.

Seeing Good in Others

Blessed is the man who has the gift of making friends, for it is one of the best gifts. It involves many things, but above all the power of going out of one's self and seeing and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in others.—Thomas Hughes.

RISKS LIFE TO SAVE HIS SHOVEL

Italian Section Hand Employed on Chicago Electric road has his Leg cut off

WAS HIT BY LIMITED TRAIN

Was Taken to the Waukegan Hospital Unconscious Where he Died on Saturday Night

An Italian section hand employed by the Chicago and Milwaukee Electric railroad company had his left leg severed from his body near the hip joint at Glencoe early Friday morning when he raced in front of a limited car to save a $1.50 shovel which he had left laying on one of the tracks.

The injured man and six other Italians were at work repairing tracks near Glencoe. The approach of a limited train was observed by the foreman of the crew who instructed the men to leave the track at once. All obeyed his order. Then one man returned to save his shovel. Before the motorman in charge of the car could stop his speeding car it had struck the Italian. When picked up by the motorman the Italian had lost consciousness. He was loaded on a special car and rushed to the Jane McAlister hospital in Waukegan where he died on last Saturday night.

An employee of the railroad made the statement that the young man rushed in front of the railroad car to save a shovel which he had neglected to carry off the track when the motorman in charge of the car blew his warning signal.

The Italian was 21 years of age and had been a resident of the United States but one week. He had made his home with his brother at Winnetka. The motorman of the electric company was exonerated of all the blame by the coroner's jury.

SEVEN HUNDRED

NEW CAMPS

CHARTERED

Considering the general depression which has existed throughout the country for nearly a year past, the Modern Woodman of America have had a remarkable growth during the past nine months according to a report made to the executive council by Head Clerk C. W. Hawes of Rock Island. Up to Sept. 30, the year 1911 had seen 109,248 new members added to the rolls of the society, making the total membership 1,217,000. The increase is very close to the record mark set during the first three quarters of last year, and all things considered, an equal growth is shown.

Counting out those who were dropped from the rolls through death, temporary suspensions and lapses, the net gain for the nine months past is 53,000 and the total amount of insurance in force was increased by the enormous sum of $76,800,000.

Seven hundred new camps were chartered during the year thus far, and there were 15,180 camps in good standing Sept. 30.

King Corn

Corn, the gift of the new world to the old, is the king of grains. Each year some new use is found for it. Even after everything, seemingly, has been extracted from it there is left a valuable residuum known as corn oil cake, which is sold here and abroad and is used in the fattening of sheep and other animals. Nearly 50,000,000 pounds of this material are annually shipped to Great Britain and Germany and there used by farmers, who find it cheaper than materials of a similar nature which they can grow at home.

Unfounded Suspensions

"You don't look as if you'd ever had anything to do with water in all your born days," said the hard-featured woman standing inside the kitchen door. "Nevertheless, ma'am," replied Tutuold Knutt, stiffening himself up and speaking in a tone of insolent dignity, "when I was a young man I run a ferry for a whole year!"—Youth's Companion.

AGED MAN BITTEN BY MAD DOG

Charles Stickney, Sr., is Bitten by His Own Dog Which is Suffering From Rabies

HE REFUSES TO BELIEVE IT

The Dog was Killed and the Head Sent to the Chicago Institute; Mr. Stickney
May be Sent Also

Charles Stickney, Sr., 34 years old, who has resided on the Beach Road just north of Waukegan for more than fifty years, has been bitten twice by a dog that Dr. Oscar Smith, veterinarian says gives every indication of being affected with rabies. Dr. Smith has sent the head of the dog to Dr. Lagorio, head of the Pasteur Institute in Chicago for examination. If the opinion of Dr. Smith is sustained, as it has been in every case where he diagnosed the ailment of a dog to be rabies, Mr. Stickney will be taken to the Pasteur Institute for treatment.

For sometime the dog, which belonged to Mr. Stickney himself, had become quite savage and to be chained. On Sunday afternoon Mr. Stickney went near the animal to unchain him. Quick as a flash the dog turned and snapped his head.

Mr. Stickney came to Waukegan and had the wound cauterized by Dr. Bellows. He was warned that the dog might be suffering of rabies but he only laughed at the idea.

On Monday afternoon Dr. Bellows took Dr. Smith with him to the Stickney home. "If I am not greatly mistaken, that the dog is suffering of rabies," Dr. Smith asserted after watching the animal a few moments.

"Nonsense, he isn't mad at all," declared Mr. Stickney and contrary to the admonition of Drs. Smith and Bellows, he walked up and started to pat the beast on the head. There was a snarl, and this time the dog sank his teeth in Mr. Stickney's leg.

Then Dr. Smith got busy. Picking up a club he proceeded to dispatch the animal with a few well directed blows. He then decapitated the dog and sent the head to Chicago.

Mr. Stickney declares that he does not yet feel any ill effects of his experience and he will not take the treatment until he is sure that the dog was mad. As yet he is not convinced.

BURNED BADLY

TRYING TO SAVE

BABY FROM FIRE

Mrs. Joseph Adams of Belvidere street, Waukegan, sustained severe burns about her hands and arms Friday afternoon due to an explosion of liquid stove polish which she placed too near a fire. Her anxiety to see that her baby was not burned caused her to receive more severe burns than otherwise would have been the case.

Mrs. Adams was applying the polish to a stove in which a fire was burning. The cloth with which she was applying the inflammable liquid sprang into a blaze and the bottle of polish exploded.

Her little child was playing on the floor and rather than take the chance of dropping the burning mass of cloth to the floor Mrs. Adams carried it outside. Her burns are considered rather serious.

Melancholy Days

There are no melancholy days if we keep in tune with the bright and interesting things of life. The secret lies in being alive to what is going on about us. Don't miss the things that are worth while. This bit of philosophy applies to our advertisements. Don't let them go by unheeded. They may be the means of adding to the sum total of your happiness.

Correcting Willie

Papa and mamma and son Willie were crossing the ocean. Willie had done something for which his mother thought he needed correction, but not feeling equal to the occasion she turned to her husband.
"John," she said, "can't you speak to Willie?"
Papa replied in a thin, weak voice, "Howdy, Willie!"—Success Magazine.

SALOONS CLOSED SUNDAY

Mayor Rosing Closes Saloons at Round
Lake all Day Sunday.

In compliance with the state law Mayor Rosing has instructed that the saloons in Round Lake shall be closed hereafter, all day Sunday, says the Grayslake Times. This is another move toward the movement of a greater Round Lake.

When Mr. Rosing was elected mayor the saloons were running all day Sunday as well as week days and people from outside looked upon Round Lake as a place called, do as you please.

The first move of the new mayor was to close the saloons from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. on Sundays but the quittance and rest of people who respect the Sabbath was being so disturbed it was decided the only thing to do was to close them up and the mayor says anyone violating the rule will be dealt with by law.

Saloon keepers it is understood are in harmony with the closing up Sunday law and the instruction will be strictly observed. The citizens are rejoicing over the change and will cooperate with the mayor in every way.

GIVEN 48 HOUR FURLOUGH

Three Hundred Apprentice Seamen were Transferred to Warships Wednesday

Three hundred apprentice seamen will be transferred from the U. S. naval training station North Chicago, to warships on the Atlantic and Pacific fleets Wednesday of this week. Two hundred middies were transferred to San Francisco. The balance were stationed at Newport.

The three hundred middies who have been promoted to warship service received their back salaries. These men compose the first graduating class from the new training school. The men will not be allowed a ten day furlough as was first announced. They will be given a 48 hour furlough, and will then be packed on special trains for Atlantic and Pacific ports.

A large majority of the apprentice seamen spent their 48 hour leave of absence in Waukegan. Some had completed plans to spend their vacation at home. No explanation has been given as to why the boys were not given a ten day furlough as had been planned.

VERDICT AGAINST

R. R. COMPANY

IS RENDERED

The adjourned meeting of the coroner's jury in the case of James McGuire was held at the Simons House on Tuesday.

This meeting consumed the greater part of the afternoon and hearing the testimony of the engineer and conductor on both the passenger and freight trains as well as that of Mr. Raker an eye witness to the accident and others who were on the train or close to the scene, the jury rendered the following verdict:

"We the undersigned jurors on oath do find that James McGuire came to his death by being struck by the passenger train scheduled to leave Antioch at 4:41 o'clock at the crossing south of Antioch, commonly known as Boylan's crossing; and that his death was caused by the carelessness of the conductor and engineer of the ice train, according to the evidence, starting their train and moving into the public highway, thus frightening the said Mr. McGuire's horse, after he had passed over the main track, causing said horse to stop and back, bringing him onto the main track when he was killed by said passenger train."

The Useful Verb "To Get."

There is no word, long or short, in the English language capable of performing so much labor in a clear, intelligible sense as the verb to get, and here is an old-time specimen of its capabilities:

"I got on horseback within ten minutes after, after I got your letter. When I got to Canterbury I got a chaise for town, but I got wet through before I got to Canterbury and I have got such a cold as I shall not be able to get rid of in a hurry. I got to the treasury about noon, but first of all I got shivered and dressed. I soon got into the secret of getting a memorial before the board, but I could not get an answer then; however, I got intelligence from the messenger that I should most likely get one the next morning. As soon as I got back to my inn I got my supper. When I got up in the morning I got my breakfast and then got myself dressed that I might get out in time to get an answer to my memorial. As soon as I got it I got into the first chaise and got to Canterbury by 3 o'clock, and about tea time I got home."

Woman Brings Child Whose Age is Between Four and Five Years Old

NOW AT MRS. F. C. LAMSON'S

Woman who Left the Child Said its Own Mother would Come for Him During Next Day

"Remember now that I left you in Kenosha."

These words may form a solution for another child mystery, which is being worked out in Waukegan and may furnish some clue to the identity of a four year old boy who is now in Waukegan.

Last Sunday night, between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock, there came a knock at the home of Mrs. Frank Lamson 214 Clayton street and Mrs. Lamson upon opening the door, discovered there a young woman and a child.

Mrs. Lamson invited the couple inside and the woman proceeded to ask Mrs. Lamson if she could leave the lad at the Lamson home over night. The woman claimed that the boy's mother had asked her to take the child to Kenosha and there place her at the home of an aunt, who is employed in one of the factories there.

The aunt, stated the woman, had refused to take the boy and the two had returned to Waukegan and there the young woman sought out the home of Mrs. Lamson.

She stated that she wanted to leave the child there until Monday afternoon, when the boy's mother would come after him.

Mrs. Lamson was taken rather by surprise but as she knew the woman slightly, promised to take care of the boy over night.

The boy is still there. No mother has arrived to take care of her child, nor has any word been received at the Lamson home as to what disposition should be made of the lad.

The young woman carried a suit case, which she said was full of clothing for the boy, and upon opening the suit case, Mrs. Lamson discovered several summer suits of boys clothing and a postal card, addressed to Warren Searles, Jr., mailed from Chicago and post marked Chicago.

The letter is addressed to Warren Searles, Huntington, Ind., R. R. No. 4, and the boy stated later that he had lived with an aunt there.

But the real mystery of the story came when the young woman, on leaving the Lamson home, kissed the boy goodbye and told him to remember that he was in Kenosha not Waukegan.

It is believed that the child has been secreted there to prevent his father from obtaining possession of him, although the lad is too small to be able to tell of any trouble in his home. He will not tell where his home is, only that it is quite a long ways from Waukegan.

The lad already has won his way into the heart of Mrs. Lamson, with his bright smiles and sunny disposition. The lad stated that his nickname was Sunny Jim and when asked his name always replies "Sunny Jim."

WON CHAMPIONSHIP

BUT BREAKS

ARM IN ATTEMPT

George Bristle, of Waukegan won the championship jumping record at Allendale farm at Lake Villa Saturday, but in so doing sustained a broken arm, which will confine the little fellow to his room for some time.

It was the regular field day exercise at the school, and Bristle was entered in the swing-and-jump contest. In one last effort to land the championship, Bristle swung far out and jumped.

His mark was far ahead of the others and the boys rushed forward only to be greeted with the sight of their companion lying on the ground and writhing in pain. He was picked up and it was discovered that his arm was broken near the shoulder.

WINGED THIEVES OF EGYPT

Kites and Crows Rob Tea Tables and Steal Golf Balls From the Links.

Out at Gozira, where all Cairo has its rendezvous at the Sporting club every afternoon in and out of season, there exist large colonies of kites and crows. No sooner are the tea tables laid out than the former, who have been perched on the quill vine on the adjacent trees, start circling round and round. With a sudden dive one of these hawklike birds will swoop down on the table he has chosen and pick off the bread and butter and cake.

Now arrivals in Egypt are always very disconcerted by these antics. It matters not how many people are seated around the tables. The kite is no respecter of persons and on one crowded afternoon last season, when the German crown princess was taking tea, I remember seeing no fewer than eight tables swept of their eatables by as many kites in the space of a few minutes.

These monster birds add to the terror which they strike to the heart of the new arrival by the fact that their flight is so sudden and the theft is committed without stopping. They describe a curve, the lowest point of which is the place of bread and butter or cake, and so accurate is their descent that rarely do they leave or drop anything. An amusing factor in this otherwise rather annoying situation is furnished by the crows, who invariably act as scouts for the kites, and the presence of whom, hopping about the grass, always precedes one of these depredatory flights.

When the coup has been successfully brought off the crows evince their pleasure by ear splitting caws, and proceed to follow the plunderer at a respectful distance, possibly in order to express their unbounded admiration in the vain hope of obtaining a few crumbs. On the golf course the kites are a source of endless trouble to the players—and incidentally one of great profit to the golf ball vendors—for it is no unusual thing for your ball to be whiffed off just as you are making ready to put after a record approach.—Cairo Correspondence Fall Mail Gazette.

The Stepmother in the Classics. The ancients were as bitter on the subject of the stepmother as any modern could be. Their metaphorical uses of these words for a stepmother are cruelly significant. Thus the Romans had an expression "to complain to a stepmother" (noverca), meaning to complain in vain; and "noverca," beginning, no doubt, as slang, came to be a recognized term for rough pieces of land or for ditches which drained off the water imperfectly and slowly. The Greeks were no bad with their word, "metrix." Hesiod spoke of lucky and unlucky days as "mother and stepmother days," and Aeschylus brands a dangerous seeress as "a stepmother to ships."

Old Joke Appropriately Quoted: Senator Sullivan of New York once put in a new form a joke as old as medicine. The occasion was a banquet of homeopathic physicians. During the banquet the usual toasts were drunk. To the health of "the ladies," of "the president," of "Hahnemann, the father of homeopathy," and of a dozen other persons and subjects, glasses were drained dry, and then, all of a sudden, the toastmaster remarked: "Senator Sullivan has not been heard from. Senator Sullivan will now propose a health." The senator arose, and beamed upon the assemblage of physicians. "I propose," he said, "the health of the sick."

Libel on Stepmothers. One of London's prominent medical men has "got himself talked" by the stepmothers of all nations. The basis of his offending is his public assertion that "all stepmothers are, instinctively cruel to stepchildren."

Such a statement is regarded, very justly, as in the nature of wholesale libel. In fact, every observing man and woman in the civilized world can recall plenty of instances proving the falsity of the doctor's charge.

This London libeler would find occasion for apology to the women he maligns by reading the history of the boyhood of Abraham Lincoln and of the devotion of the stepmother of that great American.—Chicago Journal.

Dioegenes Again. Dioegenes paused and shook the hand of the prominent citizen heartily. "Is he the honest man?" asked the Athenians.

"S-h-h," replied Dioegenes in a whisper. "I have to humor him. He owns the oil trust."

Whereupon he made his way to the refinery and had his lantern filled free of charge.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Satisfactory Explanation. I thought you told me this place was so healthy that nobody ever died here?" objected the prospective purchaser to the real estate agent. "I did, and I'll stick to it." "I'll bet you will. You also told me that people in this suburb didn't have to pay grocery bills, because the ground raised their vegetables for them." "I told you that too." "How do you account for the fact that one of your prominent citizens died of starvation yesterday?" "That was a doctor."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

U. S. AID IS ASKED

TURKEY REQUESTS GOVERNMENT TO INTERVENE IN TRIPOLITAN WAR.

MATTER IS UP TO KNOX

Sultan's Ambassador Files Protest With State Department Against Barbarous Work of Italians, Which He Says Is Confirmed by Facts.

Washington.—The so-called Italian barbarities in Tripoli finally have been brought officially to the attention of the American government by Turkey, through its ambassador filing a request that the United States intervene in the Tripolitan war.

The Turkish foreign office cabled its ambassador here to protest against the alleged barbarities committed by the Italians in the city of Tripoli and its neighborhood, Turkey taking the ground that every citizen of Tripoli has a right to bear arms and defend the country. The Turkish government makes the point that while the barbarities have heretofore been only matters of newspaper report they are now confirmed as facts.

The acting secretary of state, Mr. Adee, did not feel authorized to make the reply of this government to the Turkish foreign office. He assured the Turkish ambassador, however, that he would transmit the Turkish communication immediately to Secretary of State Knox, who is out of town. The United States is not a member of the European concert and there will naturally be a long discussion of the rights of the United States in the premises before a reply is sent to Turkey.

If the United States should grant Turkey's request it so happens that the Atlantic fleet is ready, but it is not expected that the United States would act without ascertaining the truth or falsity of the stories of cruelties to Arabs and Turks, and even in that event it is scarcely probable that the United States would commit itself to physical intervention.

The reply, therefore, of the United States, if one becomes necessary within a day or two, would be that Turkey should appeal and get redress from the signatories of the Berlin treaty first.

Malta.—The Turkish and Arab forces have attacked the Italians at Tripoli and a heavy engagement is being fought.

The battle started when the Turkish artillery began to shell the city, in which the invaders are virtually prisoners. The Turks have advanced their lines until now they are near the Italian outposts. They are expected to storm the city at any moment. The Italians so far have held their own at long range firing, but refugees state that they face certain defeat if the attacking force carries the battle within the city.

The exact strength of the Turkish forces is not known, but it is stated that they have concentrated all available men for this battle. Thousands of Arabs are in the ranks, and the army is being augmented hourly by Bedouins and Arabs from the Sudan, who have come to carry on a holy war.

RODGERS FLIES TO PACIFIC

Aviator Lands at Pasadena, Cal., and Finishes Greatest Feat in World's Air Navigation.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The continent has been crossed in an airplane. Calhoun P. Rodgers in his Wright Vin Fiz flyer landed at Pasadena, completing the most marvelous feat of aviation in history.

Although Rodgers has been forty-nine days making the record-breaking flight, his actual flying time was but a little more than 100 hours, but a few hours less than the running time of the fastest trans-continental train.

Mrs. Rodgers was the first to greet him when he stepped from his seat in the aeroplane. She had followed him all the way from New York during the long journey, the special train keeping pace with the flyer.

The crowd was upon Rodgers in a moment and must have torn him to pieces for souvenirs but for a strong guard of special police. But the crowd would not be denied, and after the first mad enthusiasm had subsided the aviator held an impromptu reception, shaking hands with hundreds who passed by in line. At the conclusion the aviator was seized and carried triumphantly upon the shoulders of a reception committee.

During his trans-continental flight Rodgers landed in or passed through ten states and flew approximately 2,624 miles. He has met with eleven accidents and his machine was wrecked seven times.

He has lost nine days on account of these accidents and damaged machine, been delayed five days on account of wind and rested up five days at different points en route.

Drink Weed Alcohol; Two Dead. Bremerton, Wash.—After drinking wood alcohol P. J. Hally and A. L. Law, navy sailors, are dead and Senator Arthur Johnson is dying. Navy guards are seeking other members of the complement of the cruiser Pennsylvania, who may be dead or sick in hotels of the city.

Blow Up Railroad Bridge. Danville, Ill.—Swango bridge, three miles from Paris, was blown up by dynamite. Big Four officials are investigating.

TAFT REVIEWS FLEET

FLOWER OF NAVY IN SPECTACLE AT NEW YORK.

Ninety-Nine Ships of War Fire Preliminary Salute to Commander in Chief as He Passes.

New York.—Fresh from his cross-continent tour of 13,000 miles, President Taft, from the wind-swept bridge of the historic little cruiser yacht Mayflower, reviewed the mightiest line of fighting craft ever assembled under the American flag.

Standing on the bridge of the Mayflower, anchored off Twenty-third street, the president braved a 60-mile gale to receive the homage of 22 great steel-clad leviathans steaming down the river along the shore of New York city.

After reviewing the fleet the president left for Hot Springs, Va.

Before his departure the president issued the following statement:

"Those who saw the fighting fleet which was assembled in New York harbor could not fail to be struck with its preparedness and with its high military efficiency and must have been proud of its personnel."

"I am more than ever convinced of the desirability of conferring upon the commanding officer of our fleet the title of admiral, or at least of vice-admiral. At present the ranking officer is rear admiral and this title is not commensurate with the importance of the fleet. At the review of the German fleet at Kiel, a smaller number of ships were under the command of a full admiral; two squadrons were commanded by vice-admirals, and each of four divisions was commanded by a rear admiral."

The governor also charges that Theodore Roosevelt and other editors and officials of the Outlook company, the Boston Herald, the officers of the United Shoe Machinery company, the American Woolen Company and the Arkwright club published or caused to be published for circulation in this state political advertisements not signed in accordance with the statutes of 1908.

District Attorney Pelletier announced that he deemed the matter of sufficient importance to lay the facts before the grand jury.

TRIPOLI SHELLED BY TURKS

Outer Forts Are Captured by Arab Allies After Two Hours' Terrific Bombardment.

Berlin.—The outer forts at Tripoli have been captured by the allied Turkish and Arab forces following a terrific bombardment. The Italians were driven back, according to reports here.

The dispatches state that Reschad Bey, the Turkish commander, sent a note demanding the immediate surrender of the city and that upon the Italians replying in the negative a two hours' cannonade was opened by the attacking force.

The Turkish leader warned the foreign consuls and unarmed citizens to leave Tripoli. How many escaped before the bombardment began is not known.

DEATH TAKES KYRLE BELLEW

Famous Actor, Writer and Explorer Succumbs to Pneumonia at Salt Lake City.

Salt Lake City.—Kyrle Bellew, one of the foremost actors of the English-speaking stage, author and explorer, died here of pneumonia after a brief illness.

His body was taken to New York, accompanied by the members of the "Mollusc" company, in which Mr. Bellew was playing here.

Hit Church Rummage Sales. La Crosse, Wis.—By unanimous resolution of the Socialist party in La Crosse, taken in meeting, the mayor and common council are called upon to suppress church rummage sales by law. They are denounced as among the worst offenders of idleness in the community.

Johnson Fined for Speeding. London.—A violent hurricane which has been raging on the Atlantic has done considerable damage to shipping. The coast is strewn with wreckage. The gale was especially violent off the Mersey and Dee.

LOS ANGELES CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

JOB HARRIMAN.

Job Harriman, Socialist candidate for mayor of Los Angeles, Cal., got more votes than either of his opponents in the primary election held here, but he did not receive a majority. Hence the issue will not be settled until the election in December. Under the city charter a majority in the primary elects. Thousands of women worked for Harriman.

REBELS TAKE CITY

SHANGHAI IS CAPTURED BY CHINESE REVOLUTIONISTS WITHOUT RESISTANCE.

THRONE ACCEPTS NEW CODE

Constitution Adopted Provides for Perpetuity of Manchu Dynasty But Curtails Power of Throne—Fall of Wasing Expected Soon.

Shanghai.—The city of Shanghai was taken over by the rebels without a battle, the authorities offering no resistance and the troops of the Kiangnan arsenal joining the invading forces.

A large force of rebels has set out for Wasing, ten miles up the river, and a report that the city has fallen, together with all the forts along the river, is expected hourly.

Other forces are advancing on Nankin and Ching Kiang. The province of Yunnan seceded and declared its independence.

The capture of this city was accomplished with astonishing ease. There has been no fighting or disorder and the sudden movement was unexpected.

Peking.—The national assembly completed a draft of the bases upon which it proposes to construct the new constitution of China. It was submitted to the throne and accepted immediately. The tentative plan provides for the perpetuity of the Manchu dynasty. The power of the emperor is closely restricted by the constitution, which is to be written by the national assembly.

The imperial princes are made ineligible to the offices of premier, members of the cabinet and administrators of the provinces.

Hankow.—Fighting is still in progress in Hankow, according to late dispatches received here. The city is described as a pile of ruins with bodies strewn everywhere. The battle there between the royalists and the rebels is believed to be the most vicious of the revolution.

PASTOR HAS NEW WITNESS

Druggist Says Alleged Victim of Rev. Richeson Bought Cyanide for Chemical Experiments.

Boston.—An important new witness for the defense in the case of Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, charged with the murder of Avis Linnell, has been found in Eugene Levitan of Dorchester, who until last Thursday conducted a pharmacy at 50 Doyleston street, Cambridge.

Mr. Levitan declared that a few weeks before the death of Avis Linnell he sold a small quantity of cyanide of potassium to a young woman whom he believes was the student of music whose death by poison is charged against the young clergyman.

Campaign Managers Sued. Milwaukee.—Charles Lamb of Madison has brought suit for $1,295 against J. Elmer Lehr and E. A. Edmonds, campaign managers for Senator Stephenson, alleging that sum is due him for campaign work.

Shipping Damaged by Hurricane. London.—A violent hurricane which has been raging on the Atlantic has done considerable damage to shipping. The coast is strewn with wreckage. The gale was especially violent off the Mersey and Dee.

WOMAN CURED BOY OF ECZEMA

Eczema Caused Abscesses Now Entirely Cured by Resinol.

Who can tell the terrible suffering of this poor boy until his mother finally discovered Resinol? Taken from school because of his sad plight, he was in misery greater, probably, than words can describe. Read what his mother says:

"My boy had Eczema in such a form that it caused abscesses on his head. I was compelled to take him from school. After using your soap and ointment for three weeks he was entirely cured. I will always keep both in my home."

"MRS. FLORENCE GRIFFIN,

"828 Winton street, Philadelphia, Pa."

If Resinol can do this in one case it can do it in all cases of skin disease. We have thousands of testimonials telling of wonderful cures. Resinol Ointment is prescribed by physicians for every skin irritation, including cuts, sores, scalds and burns, and is a remedy for hives, carbuncles, felons, piles, eczema, hemorrhoids, itchy, shingles, psoriasis, eruptions of poison ivy and other skin troubles. Gives immediate relief, and should be on hand ready for immediate use. It is put up in screw-top opal containers selling at fifty cents and a dollar.

Resinol Soap, made of the same ingredients, represents the highest art in soap-making. It is refreshing and soothing and should be used by every one for the toilet and bath. It is especially adapted to the skin of infants. Provents many of the skin troubles and there is nothing quite so good for shampooing and the cleansing of the scalp. The ointment and soap are for sale by all druggists. Sample sent free if you will mention Department No. 61, Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

Subjective.

"I see somebody has invented a 'noiseless' soap spoon. In what way is it noiseless?"

"Why, madam, it's constructed in such a manner that—or—you don't make a noise when you're using it."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules. Easy to take as candy.

RATHER PLEASANT.

Duan—Ah, you are in this time. I've called five times with this bill, but you've been out.

Owens—Indeed? Well, you are out this time. Fine morning, isn't it?

Fever's On.

"There's no fever like the football fever," said George H. Barlo, Jr., at a dinner party in Philadelphia. "Let me tell you about a broker's boy in Third street."

"A Third street broker sat at his desk the other morning when his office boy entered and said respectfully: 'If you please, sir, my grandfather's dead and I'd like to get off early to go to the funeral match—I mean the football ceremony—that is—'"

"And then, blushing scarlet, the boy withdrew."

Does the Party Still Live.

While the Insurgents of the Middle West are poisoning the air with their Social Democratic teachings, while nearly every Coxeyite, nonpartisan grafter and anti-Republican job hunter is seeking office or emolument hereabouts under the pretense of being a sort of Republican and while the name of the soberest, sanest and most constructive party in American history is being taken in vain by all the political shysters, shitepokes and quacksters of Illinois politics, it is refreshing to observe the steadfastness with which the Lincoln Protective League is going about the business of saving the Republicanism of Illinois from the perils that menace it.

Every morning we read of a meeting held at the Lincoln League headquarters the night before. Every morning we read of the fervor and force with which the only recognized Republican principles are preached at that meeting.

And yet, earnest as these reports show the League meetings to be, it is only after listening to the speeches, hearing the applause and observing the audiences that a man can understand the power of the organization that is being effected day by day and night by night.

So far there have been few, if any mass meetings; these, we understand, are to come later. So far only the tried Republican soldiers—two from each precinct, eighty to one hundred from each ward—have been requested to be present. The meetings have therefore been largely organization meetings—the last meetings at which one would expect to hear an elaborate discussion of principles and to find such discussion holding fast the attention of every man present.

Nevertheless, for four hours every evening the hall of the Lincoln League in Randolph street is filled with earnest and loyal workers of the party who attend with eagerness and enthusiasm to the exposition of real Republican principles, as opposed to the Populism, "Progressivism" and Socialism put forth by mere party pretenders in other quarters.

When the men who have been the muscle and backbone of the Republican party in Chicago for twenty years will leave their homes on the far West Side, South Side and North Side night after night, come down to the center of the city and devote themselves with enthusiasm to this sort of organization—months before the primaries, a year before the general election—and devote themselves to it without hope of office or reward, who is hard enough to maintain that the spirit of Republicanism is moribund in Cook county or Illinois? Only the man who lies to suit his fancy or to deceive others as to the political facts?

And when one contemplates the Republican loyalty of such men, as well as their devotion to the principles that have made the Republican party what it is, how slimy and hollow appear by contrast the professions of the job-grafters and demagogues who, for their own personal advancement, are now running around the state shouting to the people to ruin the Republican party, upset representative government and plunge everything into a vortex of revolution, merely that they—the job-grafters and the demagogues—may seize the offices and flaunt and strut in public life for a few brief years!

The Lincoln Protective League and the 35,000 or 60,000 men who have associated themselves with its organizers in Chicago up to this date are giving a great demonstration!

They are demonstrating that principles, real principles, and platforms, real platforms, still live, still overtop mere job-grafting in the minds of the people.

They are demonstrating that the time is not yet here when all that the Republican party has been and is—the work of the Lincolns, Blaines, Grants, McKinleys and Harrison—the kind of government for which they fought and lived—the achievements of policy that constitute the whole progress of this people in the nation's golden age—they are demonstrating that the time is not yet here when all this work and spirit of a people and a party are to be cast aside, thrown to the rubbish heap of history, dishonored, forgotten and sacrificed merely to glorify for the moment the little personality of a La Follette, a Bristow, a Cummins or even a Merriam, a Jones or a Deneen.

And, just now, to demonstrate these things is a colossal work. No wonder the Lincoln League has passed, in name and fame, far beyond the borders of Cook county and already is being observed in its career by public men in all states, from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

As there is a report going around that there was a great deal of damage done to my piano and rugs by the children of the Channel Lake school to whom I gave a Halloween party Oct. 31st. I wish to say that the rumor is wholly unfounded. There was a slight unintentional defacing to the music holder of the piano but the damage is so slight it is not worth mentioning. My rugs were not down. The children all conducted themselves in a manner to be proud of and I shall take great pleasure in entertaining them again at some future time. Mrs. A. E. Case.

The Rev. I. R. Hicks 1912 Almanac.

Before the great drought of 1901, the Hicks Almanac gave timely warning.

For over two years prior to 1911, the Hicks Almanac again sounded a warning of drought danger.

And so for forty years this same friend of all the people has steadfastly refused the offers of speculators and continued to warn the public of the coming dangers of storm and weather.

As they should have done, the people have nobly stood by Professor Hicks, their faithful public servant, who has grown old in their service.

Send only one dollar to Word and Works Publishing Company, 3401 Franklin Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri, and get his Magazine and Almanac both for one year.

The Almanac alone, a fine book of 150 pages, is only 35c. by mail.

Let everybody respond and receive the warnings of our National Seer for the coming year.

A TALE OF THE PLAINS

SYNOPSIS.

Jack Keith, a Virginian, now a border plainman, is riding along the Santa Fe trail on the lookout for roaming war parties of savages. He notices a camp fire at a distance and then sees a team attached to a wagon and at full gallop pursued by men on ponies. When Keith reaches the wagon the riders have massacred two men and departed. He searches the victims finding papers and a lock with a woman's portrait. He resolves to hunt down the murderers. Keith is arrested at Carson City, charged with the murder, his accuser being a ruffian named Black Bart. He goes to jail fully realizing the peril of swift border justice. A companion in his cell is a negro, who tells him he is Ned and that he knew the Keith family back in Virginia. Ned says one of the murdered men was John Sibley, the other Gen. Willis Walte, formerly an officer in the Confederate army. The plainman and Ned escape from the cell, and later the two fugitives become lost in the sand desert. They come upon a cabin and find its lone occupant to be a young girl, whom Keith recognizes as a shaver he saw at Carson City. The girl explains that she came there in search of a brother who had deserted from the army. A Mr. Howley induced her to come to the cabin while he sought to locate her brother. Howley appears, and Keith in hiding recognizes him as Black Bart. Howley tries to make love to the girl. There is a terrific battle in the darkened room in which Keith overcomes Black Bart. Howley is overpowered, and the girl who says that her name is Hope, joins in the escape. Keith explains his situation and the fugitives make for Fort Larned, where the girl is left with the hotel landlady. Miss Hope tells that she is the daughter of General Walte. Keith and Ned drift into Sheridan, where Keith meets an old friend, Dr. Fairbairn.

"You say there was no trace?"
"Nothing to travel on after forty-eight hours—a posse started out next morning, soon as they found him—when they got back they reported having run the fellows as far as Cimmaron Crossing—there they got across and escaped."

"Who led the posse?"
"A man called Black, I think," he said.
"Black Bart?"
"Yes, that's the name; so, I reckon you didn't bury Willis Walte this time, Capt'n. You wouldn't have thought he was a dead one if you had heard him swear while he was telling the story—it did him proud; never heard him do better since the second day at Gettysburg—had his car shot off then, and I had to fix him up—Lord, but he called me a few things."

Keith sat silent, fully convinced now that the doctor was telling the truth, yet more puzzled than ever over the peculiar situation in which he found himself involved.

"What brought the General up here?" he questioned, finally.
"I haven't much idea," was the reply. "I don't think I asked him directly. I wasn't much interested. There was a hint dropped, however, now you speak about it. He's keen after those papers, and doesn't feel satisfied regarding the report of the posse. It's my opinion he's trailing after Black Bart."

The dining-room was thinning out, and they were about the only ones left at the tables. Keith stretched himself, looking around.

"Well, Doctor, I am very glad to have met you again, and to learn Walte is actually alive. This is a rather queer affair, but will have to work itself out. Anyway, I am too dead tired tonight to hunt after clues in midst of this babel. I've been in the saddle most of the time for a week, and have got to find a bed."

"I reckon you won't discover such a thing here," dryly. "Got seven in a room upstairs, and others corded along the hall. Better share my cell—only thing to do."

"That would be asking too much—I can turn in at the corral with Ned; I've slept in worse places."

"Couldn't think of it, Keith," said the doctor got up. "Besides, you sleep at night, don't you?"
"Usually, yes," the other admitted.
"Then you won't bother me any—no doctor sleeps at night in Sheridan; that's our harvest time. Come on, and I'll show you the way. When morning comes I'll rout you out and take my turn."

Keith had enjoyed considerable experience in frontier hotels, but nothing before had ever quite equaled this, the pride of Sheridan. The product of a mushroom town, which merely existed by grace of the temporary railway terminus, it had been hastily and illogically constructed; so it could be transported elsewhere at a moment's notice. Every creak of a bed echoed from wall to wall. The thin partitions often failed to reach the ceiling by a foot or two, and the slightest noise aroused the entire floor. And there was noise of every conceivable kind, in plenty, from the blare of a band at the Pioneer Dance Hall opposite, to the energetic cursing of the cook in the rear. A discordant din of voices surged up from the street below—laughter, shouts, the shrieks of women, a rattle of dice, an occasional pistol shot, and the catapaultous yelling of industrious "barkers." There was no safety anywhere. An exploding revolver in No. 47 was quite likely to disturb the peaceful slumbers of the innocent occupant of the thronged bar room below caused the lodger to curl up in momentary expectation of a stray bullet coursing toward him.

"Oh, You Mean Hope? Do You Know Her?"

through the floor. With this to trouble him, he could lie there and hear everything that occurred within and without. Every creak, stamp, and snore was faithfully reported; every curse, blow, snarl, re-echoed to his ears. Inside was hell; outside was Sheridan.

Wearied, and half dead, as Keith was, sleep was simply impossible. He heard heavy feet tramping up and down the hall; once a drunken man endeavored vainly to open his door; not far away there was a scuffle, and the sound of a body falling down stairs. In some distant apartment a fellow was struggling to draw off his tight boots, skipping about on one foot amid much profanity. That the boot conquered was evident when the man crawled into the creaking bed, announcing defiantly, "If the landlord wants them boots off, let him come an' pull 'em off." Across the hall was a rattle of chairs, and the voices of several men, occasionally raised in anger. Now and then they would stamp on the floor as an order for liquid refreshments from below. From somewhere beyond, the long-drawn melancholy howl of a distressed dog greeted the rising moon.

Out from all this pandemonium Keith began to unconsciously detect the sound of voices talking in the room to his left. In the lull of obstructing sound a few words reached him through the slight open space between wall and ceiling.

"Hell, Bill, what's the use goin' out again when we haven't the price?"
"Oh, we might find Bart somewhere, and he'd stake us. I guess I know enough to make him loosen up. Come on; I'm goin'."

"Not me; this town is too near Fort Hays; I'm liable to run into some of the fellows."

A chair scraped across the floor as Bill arose to his feet; evidently from the noise he had been drinking, but Keith heard him lift the latch of the door.

"All right, Willoughby," he said, thickly, "I'll try my luck, an' if I see Bart I'll tell him yer hero. So long."

He shuffled along the hall and went, half sliding, down stairs, and Keith distinguished the click of glass and bottle in the next room. He was sitting up in bed now, wide awake, obsessed with a desire to investigate. The references overheard must have been to Howley, and if so, this Willoughby, who was afraid of meeting soldiers from the fort, would be the deserter Miss Hope was seeking. There could be no harm in making sure, and he slipped into his clothes, and as silently as possible, unlatched his door. There was a relay crowd at the farther end of the hall, and the sound of some one laboriously mounting the stairs. Not desiring to be seen, Keith slipped swiftly toward the door of the other room, and tried the latch. It was unlatched, and he stepped quietly within, closing it behind him.

Jack Keith. No expression of recognition came into the face of the other, and Keith added curtly, "Shall we talk?"

There was a moment's silence, and then Willoughby swung his feet over the edge of the bed onto the floor.
"Fire away," he said shortly, "until I see what the game is about."

CHAPTER XVII.

Interviewing Willoughby.
Coolly, yet without in the least comprehending how best to proceed, Keith drew toward him the only chair in the room, and sat down. Miss Hope—more widely known as Christie MacInire—had claimed this drunken lad as her brother, but, according to Howley, he had vehemently denied any such relationship. Yet there must be some previous association between the two, and what this was the plainman proposed to discover. The problem was how best to cause the fellow to talk frankly—could he be reached more easily by reference to the girl or the gambler? Keith studying the sullen, obstinate face confronting him, with instinctive antagonism over his intrusion, swiftly determined on the girl.

"It was not very nice of me to come in on you this way," he began, apologetically, "but you see I happened to know your sister."

"My sister? Oh, I guess not!"
"Yes, but I do," throwing a confidence into his tone he was far from feeling, "Miss Hope and I are friends."

The boy sprang to his feet, his face flushed.

"Oh, you mean Hope? Do you know her? Say, I thought you were giving me that old gag about Christie MacInire."

"Certainly not; who is she?"
"That's more than I know; fellow came to me at Carson, and said he'd met my sister on a stage west of Topeka. I know he was lyin', because she's home over in Missouri. Finally, I got it out of him that she claimed to be my sister, but her name was MacInire. Why, I don't even know her, and what do you suppose she ever picked me out for her brother for?"

He was plainly puzzled, and perfectly convinced it was all a mistake. That his sister might have left home since he did, and drifted West under an assumed name, apparently never occurred to him as possible. To Keith this was the explanation, and nothing could be more natural, considering her work, yet he did not feel like shattering the lad's loyalty. Faith in the sister might yet save him.

"Perhaps the fellow who told you," he hazarded blithely, speaking the first thought which came to his mind, "had some reason to desire to make you think this MacInire girl was your sister."

The suggestion caused him to laugh at first; then his face suddenly sobered, as though a new thought had occurred to him.

"Damn me, no, it couldn't be that," he exclaimed, one hand pressing his head. "He couldn't be workin' no trick of that kind on me."

"Whom do you mean?"
"A fellow named Howley," evasively. "The man who claimed to have met my sister."

"Black Bart" Howley?"
The boy lifted his head again, his eyes filled with suspicion.

"Yes, if you must know; he's a gambler all right, but he's stuck to me when I was down and out. You know him?"

Merely Obeyed the Rules

How the Late Tom Johnson, in Early Life, Squirmed Out of Very Tight Place.

When the late Tom Johnson started in life he drove a horse car in Indianapolis.

One night there was a big storm of sleep and snow and the tracks were almost hidden. Johnson was on the night shift, and in the storm he drove his car two blocks beyond a curve before he realized the car was off the tracks and slipping along on the ice.

He tried to pull the car back and failed. Thereupon he unhitched the horses, drove them back to the barn and left the car where it was.

Next day the superintendent called him. "Here, Johnson," he said, "what do you mean by driving a car off the track and then leaving it in the street?"

"Why," Johnson replied, suavely,

"that's in the rules for drivers and conductors."

"In the rules for drivers and conductors?" roared the superintendent. "Where, I'd like to know?"

"Certainly," replied Johnson. "It says always to be polite to passengers. Do you remember the kind of a night last night was? Well, there was a lady on my car who didn't have an umbrella and she lived two blocks from that curve. So I drove her home."—Saturday Evening Post.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH YOUR BABY?

The young mother—and many an old one—too—is often puzzled to know the cause of her child's ill nature. The loudness of its crying does not necessarily indicate the seriousness of its trouble. It may have nothing more the matter with it than a headache or a feeling of general dullness. It cannot, of course, describe its feelings, but as a preliminary measure you are safe in trying a mild laxative.

Nine times out of ten, you will find it is all the child needs, for its restlessness and peevishness are perhaps due to obstruction of the bowels, and once that has been remedied the headache, the sluggishness and the many other evidences of constipation and indigestion will quickly disappear.

Don't give the little one salts, cathartic pills or nasty waters, for these will act as purgatives, and they are too strong for a child. In the families of

COUNTRY SCHOOL OF TODAY

Three Hundred Structures of the Modern Type Building in Kansas This Year.

Topeka, Kan.—Kansas has finally decided that the old-fashioned, unsanitary, ill-lighted and poorly-appointed schoolhouse does not produce the best results, and more new and thoroughly modern schoolhouses are being built in the country school districts this year than ever before. More school districts have issued bonds for new buildings this year than were ever offered to the state school fund commission before, and the bonds are for larger amounts.

300 TYPE OF SCHOOLHOUSE

which mean better schoolhouses than usual.

The ordinary schoolhouse has cost from $500 to $800. It was simply a big box, of straight lines, with four windows on each side, a door at one end and a stove in the center. But the new buildings cost from $1,200 to $2,000, and they are thoroughly modern in lighting, with furnace heat, some even with steam heat, and with genuine glaze blackboards. Every convenience known to the city schools is being installed in the country schools also.

There are many boys and girls now in the high schools and colleges of the state who got their common school education in one of these old-fashioned box schoolhouses and there are a few who went to school in an old sod schoolhouse. There are a few of these old sod schoolhouses still standing but not a single one is in use in Kansas now. All have been replaced by the modern structures.

Since the first of the year more than 300 school districts have issued bonds for schoolhouses. In every instance the bonds were issued for new buildings. The old ones were used last winter for the last time and when the children started to school this fall they went to a new building with every comfort that is possible to give them. Some districts do not have to issue bonds for the new structures.

Motoring at its Best.
Few motorists know of motoring in all its fullness. They drive along country roads for a hundred miles or so, through towns so closely set that they virtually run through one long village, and they think they have motored. They cross the ocean and enjoy the perfect roads of France and Switzerland, and imagine they have experienced all there is in life in the motor car; but no one has ever been brought to a full realization of what motoring really is, or what the wonderful modern machine of man's creative genius is really capable of doing until they have sat in a racing car side by side with an expert driver and tasted the sport as it is under such conditions. Lord Byron once wrote: "What a delightful thing is a turnpike road, such a means of speeding the earth as scarce the eagle in the broad air can accomplish." He certainly spoke in prophecy of the motor car, and especially of the racing machine, which leaves distance and shrinks space into the most troy proportions.—The Columbian.

Monarchs of England.
The first to rule over all England was Egbert, King of Wessex, who united all the various petty kingdoms and became King of England in 827. The greater kingdom was disrupted from 878 to 958, when the Danes ruled north of the Thames. In the latter year King Edgar reunited the kingdom and since that time it has never been partitioned. Between Edmund Ironside (1016) and Edward the Confessor (1042) three Danish kings ruled all England, Canute, Harold I. and Hardicanute. The first king of Great Britain was James I. (1603). The first king of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland was George III. From the conquest of Ireland in 1172 by Henry II, the kings of England were styled Lord of Ireland until the assumption of the title King of Ireland by Henry VIII, and thereafter this title was used until the act of union in 1801. The imperial sovereignty of India was assumed by Queen Victoria.

Make a poultice by scalding wheat-bread well moistened with milk. Then stir in a good bit of catnip (blooms are best), and add a few drops of iudanium. Spread on a piece of muslin with a thin muslin or gauze over to keep poultice from sticking to the flesh. Lay over ear, coming well below and back, and as hot as possible, keeping it so with hot-water bottle or brick.—National Magazine.

Two Points of View.
On one occasion, at a party given by Sir John Millais, Lady Hall rose to play the violin, when to her intense amusement she heard Landseer exclaim: "Good gracious! A woman playing the fiddle!" On the other hand, an old-fashioned nobleman, when he saw a gentleman sit down to the piano, contemptuously remarked: "I wonder if the creature can sew!"

Use of Checks in France.

The governor of the Banque de France has just sent to the director of the departmental branch offices a circular instructing them about the use of crossed checks. The terms in publishing these instructions points out the advantage of the English method of employing checks and then shows how the French system of making payments immobilizes capital unproductively in purse drawers or bank where as these sums converted into checks would be profitable not only to their owner but also for the bank which employs them.

While the Bank of France has to face a bank note circulation of 5,000,000,000 francs and the monetary stock is 211 francs 75 centimes per head of the contribution England with a greater amount of business has a bank note circulation of 498,000,000 francs and a monetary stock of 84 francs 58 centimes.

Light of the Firefly.

The statement that the light of fireflies and other phosphorescent animals is produced without any sensible degree of heat has often been repeated without any information as to the quantity of heat that would be required to produce a similar amount of light by artificial methods. This information is supplied by Professor McIntosh. He says that a temperature approaching 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit would be necessary to make a light equivalent to that emitted by an ordinary firefly. The enormous waste in all industrial methods of producing light is a matter of common knowledge and the example of the firefly remains unutilized by man. The very simplicity of the mechanism employed by nature in phosphorescent animals is baffling.—Harper's Weekly.

Help yourself.

If you want to become intelligent you must take your own little pitcher to the well of knowledge and dip it in yourself.

Disastrous Curiosity.

The curiosity of some peasants as to what was inside an unexploded shell they found in a field near the artillery station at the village of Milosnia, near Warsaw, the other morning, proved disastrous. When they attempted to open the shell it exploded, killing three of them and wounding 18.

Paint in Japan.

It is estimated that Japan consumes $15,000,000 worth of paint annually. About 85 per cent. of this total is imported. Japan also has a paint making factory, with a capital of $500,000.
